

DECISION IN OCTOBER
IN FRISCO SHOP CASE

The decision of Judge Ing of the circuit court at Cape Girardeau, Mo., in the injunction suit of the city of Cape Girardeau to prevent the Frisco railroad from moving its shops from the city, will be handed down at the October term of court, it was announced yesterday at the conclusion of the trial. The case occupied the entire session of circuit court yesterday.

The suit was brought by the city on the grounds that the contract of the railroad was to leave their shop in Cape Girardeau permanently. The counsel for the railroad argued that the definition of "permanently" was only that degree of permanence as would benefit to a greater extent those whom the road and shops served. The city was represented by John A. Hope of St. Louis and A. M. Spradling of Cape Girardeau and the Frisco by E. T. Miller of St. Louis and R. L. Ward of Caruthersville, Mo.,—Springfield Leader.

MONETT HIGH SCHOOL
COURSE OF STUDY

The course of study for the Monett high school for the coming year will be both practical and intellectual. In order to make the courses inspirational as well as practical much care has been taken in the selection and arrangement of the various courses of study. With the addition of two more new courses this year the high school curriculum ought to meet the demands of all the varied interests of the young people of high school age. Public speaking and dramatics and rural and community sociology will be added this next year.

The fact that the courses are partly vocational makes the work much more practical. The Commercial department prepares a student to enter business life well trained for his work. The practical lessons in cooking and serving taught in the domestic science classes is highly valuable to any young woman. The teachers' training course, offering psychology, methods and school management, and which qualifies a student on its completion, to a state teacher's certificate, is very useful. The courses in agriculture and citizenship help the young in seeing the problems of the community and in solving them.

Other courses such as history, mathematics, science and English, Latin, etc., are offered to those who do not choose the vocational subjects.

The courses by years are as follows:

First Year—English I, History I, Algebra, Latin I, General Science.

Second Year—English II, History II, Geometry, Latin II, Agriculture, Bookkeeping, Home Economics.

Third Year—English III, American History, Physics, Mathematics III, Agriculture, Stenography I, Home Economics I or II, Education I, Public Speaking.

Fourth Year—English IV, Citizenship, Home Economics II or I, Stenography II, Commercial Law, Physics, Mathematics III, Education II and III, Public Speaking, Rural Sociology.

Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Riehle and Ben Snider, of Milan, Ind., spent Tuesday evening here with Mr. Snider's brother, Joe Snider and family, and left Wednesday morning for their home. They were called to Aurora, Mo., by the death of Mrs. Riehle's sister, Mrs. Anna Pitzner who died following an operation for appendicitis, July 4.

An Adventure Romance

GEORGE AGNEW CHAMBERLAIN

COPYRIGHT THE BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY

Mr. Randolph raised his head and smiled.

"Call me 'Slim,' please, Tourke—'Slim Hervey,' for awhile yet. I've decided to accept your offer of another wagon for a week or two—that is, if you realize you'll be doing me just a plain, monumental favor."

"Sure, kid!" said Mr. O'Shaughnessy, flushing, as does all his kind on the verge of gratitude. "That's all right."

"Thanks a lot!" said Mr. Randolph. "And do you mind if I take the 'Walt' street beat for a while? I need money."

"Why, Slim, what's got you? You know that's the rottenest short-run stand in town. Now, if it's money you want—" Mr. O'Shaughnessy reached slowly down into his capacious trousers pocket, his eyes, meanwhile studying Mr. Randolph's physiognomy with a shrewd glint that had forestalled many a clever attempt at a touch in years gone by.

"Yes, money," said Mr. Randolph pensively; "a hundred thousand dollars' worth."

Tourke's face underwent a startling change, as though it had tumbled down a whole ladder of emotions until it landed with a jolt on a solid platform of infinite pity.

"Take any beat you like, boy, while you can hold the wheel," he said, at the same time jamming the brakes down on his too generous hand. "And be sure your 'friend' Tourke ain't going to forget to come to the hospital to see you"—he finished almost with a sob—"often."

For five restless, heart-breaking days, Mr. Randolph and his cab were at the beck and call of every short-horn curb-broker that wanted his friends and customers to see him star away from the scene of others' labors in a taxi. The vast assurance that had graced him when he allowed Mr. Millyns to infer that nine days was plenty in which to pick up a hundred thousand dollars and that had also tinged a remark made some weeks before to a Miss Madge Van Teller to the effect that the great thing nowadays was to avoid having too much money had been gradually worn to a ragged frazzle.

Mr. Randolph was on the point of trying to persuade himself that he was giving way to the too constant strain rather than to any defect in his philosophy of the easiness of wealth when an excited and hatless elevator boy rushed up and said:

"Here, youse! Mr. Embonpoint Morgum's car has froze. Ring your of five alarm."

Mr. Randolph almost knocked over a fare that was attempting to get aside. "Engaged!" he growled, as he stooped to "turn her over."

Five minutes later, his cab was carrying, in the persons of Mr. Morgum, above mentioned, and another, the potential pivots of very tight-vested interests to the tune of twelve billion dollars. It may be thought that it was Slim Hervey's intention to waft this precious pair to some bosky retreat, cover them with leaves, and hold them for ransom, but such was not the case. He desired nothing from these two potentates among a race of lucre giants beyond what might come to him through his ever-open speaking slot.

This is all he heard:

"Lewistader is getting kind of fresh."

"That's what I been thinkin'."

"When?"

"What about Friday, when the Bankers-Bollevell report comes out?"

"Good Idea! Friday it is."

LAWRENCE COUNTY LIME-
STONE SHOULD BE UTILIZED

By L. L. Hunt, County Agent
Limestone deposits in Lawrence County can be economically utilized for agricultural purposes. At the present time it is almost impossible to get an adequate supply even from the big quarries at Joplin and Carthage. For the farmer that lives a number of miles from the railroad this source is not satisfactory because the high original cost, plus the excessive freight rates, and cost of a long haul makes it prohibitive of use in a large way. In many parts of the county the only satisfactory solution of the problem will be the utilization of deposits in that vicinity.

Lawrence County is blessed with an almost inexhaustible supply of limestone rock. Along most of our creeks and in the hillsides limelevel soils are underlaid with a layer of rock that is only a few feet under the surface.

Limestone rock to be of the greatest value in correcting soil acidity and as a soil improver should show a Calcium Carbonate equivalent of 90% or better. Deposits in this county that have been examined to date are much better than the average and are as good as can be found anywhere in the State of Missouri. Take for example the cliff that runs east and west just north of Mt. Vernon, the average test is 103% Calcium Carbonate equivalent, north of Marionville are excellent deposits that test 98.5%, near Peirce City twelve deposits were tested that averaged 99%, near Phelps 100% and similar deposits have been found in many other communities.

The advisability of local crushers will depend to a large extent on the accessibility and ease of quarrying the stone, demand in the community, and distance from the railroad. A community close a railroad where the limestone can be shipped direct to the user over one road, thus eliminating part of the freight rates may have little use for local crushers.

Many counties in the state have a large number of small limestone crushers that supply the agricultural needs in their counties. The numbers of such are rapidly increasing and it is only a question of time until they are found in all limestone districts. The cost of production by small crushers varies greatly, but the average of a majority of such crushers in this state is far below the delivered cost of ground limestone in Lawrence County. Many counties have cut their limestone bill in half by this means. Lawrence County with its fine quality of limestone and accessible deposits can do as well.

ENTERTAINED WITH SIX O'CLOCK DINNER

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Myers, 401 Second street, entertained at six o'clock dinner Tuesday evening, and had as their guests the sales clerks at the Durnil Dry Goods company. In the evening they made up a theatre party.

The guests were Misses Anna Cunningham, Ada Riggs, Blanche Gilloz, Fairy McCormick, Bee Masoner, Mrs. E. S. Wilson, Mrs. Andrew Nissen, Mrs. George Kiersey, the host and hostess and their house guests, Misses Ruth Myers of Joplin and Agnes Hardy, of Carthage.

Miss Margaret Lepp, saleslady at the Tatem-Wright Dry Goods company, is taking a two week's vacation.

Percy Hemus, noted American baritone, will appear in a recital at the State Teachers college at Springfield Monday night July 25.

Miss Alice Futz, of St. Louis, is being entertained as the house guest of Miss Margaret Walsh. Miss Futz and Miss Walsh were college mates at the Loretto Academy at Webster Groves, Mo.

Arlie Stringer is beginning the foundation for a five-room bungalow to be constructed on his lots at the corner of Lincoln and Kale streets. This is a beautiful corner with fine shade trees and will make a lovely home.

John Westbay of the higher accounting department resumed his work, after an extended western trip, visiting points in California and Oregon. He has the distinction of being the only university graduate studying accountancy in Springfield Business College.—Springfield Republican.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Sevier, and Mr. and Mrs. Merrel Sevier, members of Domingo's Musical Extravanga who played in Monett a short time ago, returned Friday evening from a two weeks outing at Camp Echo at Galena, Mo. Mr. and Mrs. Merrel Sevier departed Monday morning for Fort Scott, Kansas to join their company.

A motoring party composed of Monett people left here early Sunday morning and went to Neosho where they enjoyed a picnic dinner, and in the afternoon went on to Wild Cat Springs and enjoyed a swim and then to Joplin and enjoyed a swim at Schiffendecker park. Mr. and Mrs. Martin Pomaik, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Martin, Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Stringer, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Willoughby composed the party.
